6G. Really? A trillion dollar economy. Really? A culture of knowledge
has. Really?

I do not understand. At all. What the Indian administration is thinking. What about sustainability? What about fixing our gross root problems??

It seems our government is truly corrupted by the rich;
the entire system seems to be a money race. The biggest sectors of India's economy see the country's resources as something to be depleted - leaving nothing for anyone but their families, empires, "people". It's a money grab. There are too many animals in the deer jungle.

As a people & as a country we need to focus on sustainability. And the RIGHT sort of it.

↳ fix the people. —————>

This is EDUCATION

Then two go hand in hand.

↳ fix the infrastructure
↳ fix the environment.

But honestly, this is a huge task. Just my efforts or even thoughts won't do anything.

And it's so fucking Depressing.

Gandhi fuck us. The British fucked us. AND NOW WE ARE FUCKING OURSELVES.

I think (as controversial as I am), India needs a good war.

We have been docile for too long. We need to take charge of the 7 sisters. We need to go through the pain of fire, death, growth, complete & utter hell.

It's horrible to say, but people will die & learn the importance of what has been neglected for so long.

↳ The importance that Europeans have learned through their wars.

So, yes - Enough is motherfucking enough. I hope Modi & Trump understood this task. Modi more. But the US can help India gain very strong foothold in their part of the world & Vice Versa.

There is absolutely nothing to lose in the situation.

There is absolutely nothing to lose in the situation.

Help me God, whoever is listening, if I can make a change:
Guide me right & give me the strength.
